Changing the Status Quo of Internships

Stacey Gandy-LCSW, Ron Bookman, Julie Coney, David Cota, Wyetta Lane, & Mark Ledingham
Mission Statement

“The ASU Community Collaborative at the Westward Ho is an inter-professional service unit that provides ASU students with real world service-learning opportunities, while enhancing the quality of life and functioning of individuals and communities.”
ASU Community Collaborative at the Westward Ho

- School of Social Work
- Edson School of Nursing
- College of Health Solutions
- School of Community Resources & Development

What We Provide at the Collaborative

- Case management, resource & referrals
- Preventative health & nutrition screenings
- Health & nutrition promotion workshops
- Individual counseling & assessments
- Music Therapy
- Groups, activities, and psychosocial education
- Socialization, physical & recreational activities & events
Objectives

• Describe 3 benefits of a student-run program
• Identify 2 challenges of this type of service-learning model as well as potential solutions
• Compare and contrast this service-learning model with traditional internship experiences
What has your internship experience been?
IMMEDIATE
QUESTIONS